

Ottawa Letter

Loans will be made liberally, says the Minister of Finance in telling of the amendments to the Farm Loan Bill. I have protested against the policy of excluding all the Southern area of Alberta from the operation of this loaning Act and have been assured that this policy will not be continued. A few of the most to be paid by an applicant to have his farm inspected when a loan is applied for regardless of the size of the loan asked for and whether it is granted or not.

There were also numerous complaints of harsh treatment by the board in collecting where loans have been granted.

The Government have decided on a policy for the drought stricken districts in the southern parts of the prairie provinces, there are 11,425,000 acres that have produced less than 5 bushels per acre during the last four years. More demonstration farms will be set up to show how these areas can be successfully managed. The ship here and there will be put under expert management and residents will be asked to co-operate.

The U. P. A. and the Liberal groups believe in a nationally owned Central Bank but when a resolution came up to take over all chartered banks as well as the Central Bank it was defeated by a vote of 93 to 12. This vote will notice a very small vote for a house of 245 members and shows that some are earning their money very easily.

Wednesday was fish day in the Ottawa and many people went to the little provinces down by the sea took part in the debate. The trouble is not in the catching of the fish but in the sale of the fish. They are caught. The happy solution would be the opening of the U. S. A. markets. The New England fishermen however, seem to be determined to keep this market for himself.

The Prime Minister dismissed the idea that the Old Age pensions would be paid to those of any age below 70. Instead a Contributory system will be started.

Mr. Woodworth protested against time being taken up with purely partisan debates and pointed out that

EDUCATIONAL WORK

As the past week was Educational Week in the Schools of Canada we reprinted this week the very fine definition of true education as given by the Strathmore Principals in his letter to the School Board at the Annual meeting.

It is our earnest belief that no student in any school can be regarded as high priority. We think we can do no better than quote the words of Thomas Huxley as an ideal emblem of worthy of any education. "That man, I think, has had a liberal education who has been so trained in youth that his body is the ready servant of his will, and does with ease and pleasure all that work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of, whose mind is stored with knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of nature and of the laws of her operation; who, no one, no student, can love all beauty, whether of art or of nature, to hate all violence, and to respect others as himself."

It is one and the other. I conceive has had a liberal education; for he is, as completely as man can be, in harmony with nature. He will have the best of her and she of him; they will get on together rarely; she is her ever beneficent mother; as he for his motherless her conscious self minister and interpreter.

Huxley realized that life is a continuous unrolling and every course of study an adventure in truth seeking. Looked before this light education becomes a spiritual adventure that grows ever broader and richer. Education is to be regarded as a quest, not to financial success, not as a device for social popularity. It is a victory won in some secret chamber of the mind which is the form of the whole personality and shines before the world in such men as Socrates, Plato, Erasmus, Huxley and Ruskin.

was still too soon to say whether the results of the Single Agreement were good or bad. Statistics and figures had been produced to prove that both sides were right and even the Minister of Agriculture said his party was using the debate to put another party on the spot.

Sincerely P. W. GERHAW.

MASQUERADE DANCE

The Ladies of Saint Michael's Guild held their annual Masquerade on Monday in the Memorial Hall. The Silver Troupe Seven brought together the fanciest of fancy costumes from Strathmore and district; while the Devil was absent he left traces of his dirty work in the persons of seven come Eleven, and Double Twine in horizontal stripes, and we are asked to say that there are, most emphatically, not the numbers of any of the three prisoners from the Kitchen on the Lettie.

The task of the Judges was a very difficult one, a large number of fine costumes being worn, and in each case a second prize provided would have helped solve the difficulty. As the Ladies of Saint Michael's Guild, Mr. J. Williams and Mr. D. McMurtry, the prize winners—Best dressed lady and gentleman Miss Irene Giron, a Spanish lady, and Mr. George Paul, an officer of the Civil War; Best home made costume, Mrs. Anson Chase, Winter; Mr. Chas. Harvey, a Shook; Best comic costume, Mrs. J. Williams, a Shook; Best costume, Mrs. E. P. Cameron, colored minister.

The committee of ladies in charge were Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. G. Wright, Mrs. McNellie, Mrs. Wilkinson, and Mrs. Tew. About $70 was cleared for the Treasury.

A cheer went up from all sides of the hall as announcement was made that Mrs. Walter Gray was winner of the four pound box of chocolates donated by Mrs. Albert Herder.

SPORT NOTES

The Red Wings advanced into the 2nd round of the playoff by defeating Drumheller two games the first by 10 to 1 and the second by 8 to 4.

A record crowd for the season was in attendance at the game here on Saturday night which was played on a good sheet of ice. Most of the Wings scores were made on good combination plays. George Giron and Collin played a bang up game, Collin getting four assists, George scoring 2 goals, J. Crellin two and Charlie and Bill Brown and L. Van Tighem one each.

RED WINGS LOSE TO GUNNERS ON WED. NIGHT

After having a 3-0 lead at the end of the first period the Red Wings fell by a 5 to 1 score to the Gunnars in the end of the game.

The Wings scored 2 in the first period, all coming off the stick of Bill Giron, two assists from E. Giron and one from McGregor.

In the second period the Wings received three penalties which was a sad handicap and the Gunnars scored three and tied the game up before the period ended.

In the third period the Gunnars ran in two more to put them that many up, but George Giron scored for the Wings on a nice solo effort making it 5 to 4 when it ended.

The second game in this series comes off on Saturday night, and both teams are out to win. The Wings have the one goal lead to overcome, but Jack Crellin who was not on the lineup at Giffen will be on hand for the second game.

On your way home, the member from the Antipodes, with views to match his complexion, advocated in given a program, dramatic action, while the Incongruities of the High Priest Abernethy were exposed by the member from Strathaback. If he had his way, it would be an end of the genre text before any person would be allowed to cast a ballot. THE WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

(By T. B. Windsor)

The pomp and splendor of the opening of the legislature, which is the final session of the seventh legislature of Alberta, was so colorful and interesting this year as ever, with the space beneath the great dome of the Legislature Buildings gorgeous in foliage and flowers and the banners of the Alberta Regiments hanging from the big buttresses in solemn reminder of the growing greatness of this new province of the dominion.

The sun shone down on the proceedings from a brilliant sky as the lieutenant governor, escorted by a numerous retinue of officers in uniform, received the members. He inspected the guard of honor while the 15 guns prescribed for a governor boomed their deep throated choruses inside the buildings.

Inside the buildings the elite of Edmonton filled the crimson carpeted chamber floor between the benches of the members, and the galleries were crowded with spectators of the humbler ranks of life.

His Honor, W. L. Walsh, lieutenant governor of Alberta, read the speech from the throne, and after that, then retired, leaving the house to go through the usual formalities and then to adjourn.

That was Thursday. On Friday the house met again and listened to two serious addresses made in morning and afternoon by the speaker from the throne by Mr. Connelley, minister for Finance, and Mr. Bailey, minister for Public Works.

The pomp and vanity features of the session had ended and the house had got down to the drab realities of business, with an atmosphere of tense expectancy pervading the galleries. But there were no fireworks, such displays not being usual during the opening days of proceedings.

Eight bills were introduced and given the purpose of this meeting was to appoint committees, and organize a plan of work.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary and adopted.

Convenors of Publicity and Entertainment Committees were appointed. They will select their own committees.

The coming Tumbline and dance sponsored by the U. F. A. and U. F. W. A. to be held at Tudor Hall on March 1st, was then discussed. A list of prizes has been compiled among them is a male, named Abe. While this prize quadruple is being held, on the night in question, it has been suggested that the orchestra should play "You Can't Get to Heaven on a Mule" With a view, no doubt of acquainting its new owner with one at least, of its limitations. Anyone having no use for such an animal can exchange it for a sack of flour or if they live at a distance, can have the price of a sack of flour instead.

HEAVEN'S MY DESTINATION

Thornton Wilder, the author of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," who was generally read a few years ago, has published another book "Heaven's My Destination." In his new writing, he seems to suggest that the only thing which would shock people more than to see Christianity flourished would be to see it put in practice.

His hero is a young book salesman who is inevitably rejecting a job in a world of pretence and excursions, he makes the astounding experiment of fitting his every act into the Biblical mold. As a result, every body thinks he's crazy.

He concludes that interest is an asceticism, so he empties his bank account, thereby forfeiting a job and getting himself arrested. He pays off a hapless man and lets him go and gets arrested again.

He takes a millionaire into giving away his fortune, wanders into a house of joy and mistakes the madman and her staff for a happy Christian family, adopts a wife of a girl because he thinks it his duty, hunts the county over for a farmer's daughter with whom, prior to being saved, he dallied briefly, and marries her somewhat against her will.

In fact, by a simple process of following primitive Christianity across modern America, he has the odd experience of being in fact, in summing these adventures Mr. Wilder, in a six back-handed way, tells us a great deal about human nature and about American society—and writes an exceedingly penetrating and thoughtful satire which you are urged not to miss.

Published by Harpers, the book sells at $2.50. It is the January choice of the Book-of-the-month club.

A TOURIST CAMP FOR STRATHMORE

The Standard is again propounding its belief in the benefits of a tourist camp for our town. In Holy Writ we read the advice of "live upon life" and "precept upon precept" and so we offer an excuse for repeating our words in this connection.

The Tourist Traffic is here to stay and will be increased in unfavourable measure from year to year. Those in the know state unequivocally that Canada Tourist Traffic will form a resource second only to our wheat returns and possibly not even second. Then with that outlook, why should Strathmore not have her share?

Development of the motor tourist traffic will mean the development of the sale of farm produce. We are in the centre of a farming community. Tourists all require bread, butter, eggs, poultry, meats, vegetables, milk, cream, etc. A Strathmore Camp would bring extra trade and many a middle makes a muck. Our grocery stores, the Crown Butcher, the Gas Vendors, Repair Shops would all profit. The material can be obtained (we are told) at a minimum cost, and we are unable to find work could be employed in the erection of winter buildings are necessary and to put the grounds in attractive order and keep them so. And as said before we have men in our town who are experts in transforming an unattractive plot into a lawn of beauty. Added to this courteous treatment and Strathmore's Auto Camp would become famous, the word being passed along from tourist party to tourist party.

In our declining wheat market the tourist traffic may provide the open door for the sale of our agricultural products.

Here's to Strathmore's Auto Camp!

APOLOGIES

The Standard is in receipt of apologies to the Board of the Nihilists Hall made by two young men for conduct unbecoming a gentleman, at a dance recently held in that Hall.

We understand the apologies have been made to the Hall Board and accepted by that body.

The Standard does not feel that any good purpose will be served by publishing the names of the young men in question—and as we believe in the doctrine of a "Second Chance" we are for this reason withholding the names.

CARE OF HOUSE PLANTS

(Lethbridge Experimental Station)

The care of house plants has been suggested as the topic for this week's letter and while there are no doubt more practical questions deserving consideration some notes on this subject should be of interest. Plants in the house furnish an atmosphere of life and cheerfulness to the enjoyment of living. They are living, breathing things that soon droop and die if neglected, whereas if cared for they provide an enjoyable means of adding beauty to the home during the long months of winter. In caring for them four things are important. These are moisture, light, temperature and soil.

Water is mentioned first because it is the factor most frequently neglected. A characteristic of the Alberta climate, during winter especially, is that the atmosphere contains very little moisture and the air in houses, particularly those heated with hot air or hot water, without humidifiers, is even drier. For this reason the watering of house plants here requires extra attention. Watering every once in a while will not give satisfactory results because the plants are first allowed to become too dry and then too wet. Some plants do best in a very moist soil, while others thrive in a comparatively dry soil but best results are obtained where a relatively uniform moisture condition is maintained from day to day.

A temperature most favorable for house plants is often difficult to maintain in the average home. During the day the temperature is kept rather too high for most plants, which results, if other conditions are favorable, in a large amount of tender and unhealthy growth. At night when the house is allowed to cool down to a point unfavorable for plants this tender growth is easily injured and the plants die from no apparent cause.

South windows provide best light conditions for sun loving plants such as geraniums and roses and flowering begonia while plants such as fuchsias, azaleas, and Norfolk pine that prefer diffused sunlight, are favoured by an east window. West windows are less favourable because the afternoon sun is usually too strong for most plants.

Soil for potting is a relatively easy matter because plants will adapt themselves to a wide range of soil conditions, providing the necessary food elements are supplied in proper amounts. A good potting soil is made by mixing garden soil with well rotted manure and clean sand, in addition the use of chemical fertilizer salts is recommended.

All plants grown near windows should be turned around occasionally as they tend to grow toward the light and become unsightly if left in one position.

House plants pests such as aphids and Black fly can be readily controlled by treating with a nicotine solution made with one teaspoonful of Black Leaf Forty to one gallon of water. To make the aphicide stick better for a weak solution of soap is added using only a pure soap such as castile. Soap containing lye are not safe to use in treating insects because the plants in the solution if possible. Otherwise spray. Do this at night and in the morning wash off with cold clean water. Never dip plants and directly expose them to sunlight. This will cause scalding. Scales which occur in fern plants and Fustas are controlled by washing each leaf in soapy water. Red spiders and mealy bugs are simply washed off by spraying with a fine strong spray of water or washing where a sprayer is not available. Further details on the care required by different plants will be given in a future letter.

COVER CROPS FOR SOIL DRIFTING CONTROL

Cover crops, such as wheat and oats may be used as a means of control in districts where fallows are subject to drifting. Perhaps the main objections to their use are that they reduce moisture and hinder weed control, and because seeding is generally recommended about the middle of August when other preparations are made for the regular grain harvest. On the other hand, wherever used they have been found very beneficial.

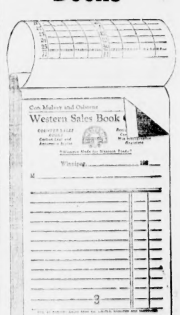

At the Dominion Experimental Farm at Indian Head, cover crops have been under observation for a number of years. It has been observed that July is a little early and conducive to excessive growth, however, it provides succulent pasture for live stock in the late fall. Observations this year would indicate the advisability of seeding cover crops in strips fifteen to twenty rods wide running north and south. Striping reduces operation costs and quite rarely produces the fallow from per acre of oats have given good results.

When seeding cover crops use the same variety of wheat and oats intended for seeding the following spring. This is very important especially from the standpoint of registered or certified seed production. One-half bushel of wheat or three quarters to one bushel per acre of oats have given good results.

Here and There

Employed on railway construction of years ago, Thomas P. McCallister, 81, of Edmonton, claims the distinction of having placed the last carload of dirt on the C.P.R. when that transcontinental line was completed to the Pacific coast in 1912. Despite his advanced age he still has clear recollection of incidents on construction.

Miss Mary McNell, superannuated in December after over thirty years on the Upper Lakes as stewards of the C.P.R. Great Lakes Steamships, spent almost her entire service as a chief stewardess of S.S. Keweenaw, sailing with her every season from her maiden voyage in 1905 until the close of the 1931 season.

Portunes are being spent on research in the science of arrangements but not one penny for research in the field of thermodynamics, said Prof. Julian Huxley, famous grandson of the even more famous Thomas H. Huxley, in outlining the meaning and functions of science in short communications and possibilities, at the Lord Nelson Hotel, Halifax, recently.

"Our province will soon take on an important place, not only the leading place among the chief provinces of the world," stated Hon. J. E. Foran, Minister of Roads and Mines of the Province of Quebec, in a recent address on "The Mining Industry of Quebec," at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City.

Interviewed at Victoria recently by N. R. Desbrosses, assistant Canadian Pacific Railway, stationed at Winnipeg, said that indications pointed to a better all-around tourist season for 1935 over 1934 with improved facilities and that there had been over previous tourist seasons.

Ski-jumping behind a fast running horse, making with a team of buckies, skating, or skiing on the mountains trail, all come under the heading of real sport, in the view of Miss Dorothy Stashish who manages the Banff Winter Sports heavily Queen during this year's season in the Canadian Rockies.

Harry Loder, tourist travelling along a highway near the world's car recently saw a sudden eagle by the window of his car, and reaching out caught it by the neck and pulled it into the automobile. He turned the bird over to the Banff Zoo.

A forty-mile ski race, a forty-mile snowshoe race, world's ski-jumping, figure skating, ladies and men's hockey, championship speed skating, polo, ski-jumping, trap-shooting, ski-jumping and many swimming events in the warm pool, will be featured at the elaborate winter carnival at Banff on the week's programme beginning February 14.

Sailing recently on her fourth annual cruise around the world, which will take 120 days, with calls at thirty-three ports in twenty-four countries, Canadian Pacific Atlantic flagship Empress of Britain, left New York with close on 400 passengers, to return to New York late in May.

Honoring Captain A. J. Halley, R. N. R., who retired from command of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada after thirty-four years with the C.P.R. shrimpers and shoreland friends presented him with an engraved wrist watch at a huge recent party at the sea, where forty-four years of service behind him on the seven seas.
